Thirty-eight States. l Sample of Klockion Counting in New York -Marshall Jowella' National Committee to get Together-A Prohibition Crank.

United Press Dispatch.

Washington, Nov. 15 .- The rumors that Postmaster Pearson and Collector Robertson of New York are to be removed continue to be circulated among politlemana bere.

Every effort seems to be made to keep the matter secret and those members of the cabinet who have been approached on the subject by the agents of the United Press Association deny all knowledge of the matter and assert that the subject was not mentioned at yesterday's cabinet meeting. From what was learned this morning, however, from those in a position to know, there seems to be no doubt that the president has fully made up his mind to remove the officials mentioned but has not yet fully made up his mind as to when the official axe should fall. It can be stated on the authority of three cabinet officers and the president's private secretary that the question of removal did not come up before the cabinet meeting yesterday and that, in fact, the subject was not even broached there, but these gentlemen decline to say whether or not a decision was reached outside the cabinet meeting.

HIGH HANDED COUNTING. New York, Nov. 15 .- James Oliver, a defeated candidate for assembly in the second Assembly district, to-day presented a protest to the board of county canvessers, charging that at the close of the polls in the 21st election district, the chairman of the inspectors was drunk and unable to perform his duties, that the U. 8. Supervisor took possession of the boxes, containing the votes and the keys with which they were lucked, turned the watchers and all citizens into the street, admitted a few ffiends and himself proceeded to count the votes. On these grounds, Oliver asks the rejection of all the votes cast. ANOTHER CONGRESSIONAL PEDAGOGUE.

Death from Heart Disease. Chaster P. Lovell Dies without a Moment's

Chester P. Lovell, lately living at 83 Wail street, was a wagon maker employed by M. H. Conklin, of Aurelina avenue. He was met, this murning, by a death startlingly sudden and one that bore a swoke at about five o'clock and finding her husband already awake asked him if the clock had sounded the slarm. He replied that it had not and would not until the hour had been struck. A few minutes later, hearing a strange noise from her husband, as if he were strangling, Mrs. Lovell arose, went around to his side of the bed, and found bim dead. Dr. Laird was at once summoned, and pronounced the cause of death to have been heart disease. Mr. Lovell was apparently in the most robust health,

The Zunis on Witcheraft. They had been told of the persecution of the witches at Salem, and as witchcraft is a capital crime in Zond, they seartily commended the work, and said that it was on account of the energetic steps taken in those times that the Americans were prosperous to-day, and rid of the curse of witchery. At the public reception held for them in Salein, when told they were in the famous city of the witches, they fell into an animated discussion of the matter among themselves there on the platform. Ki-a-si, when invited to address the audience, preached a ittle sermon on witchcraft. which would have pleased old Cotton Mather himself. He thanked the good people of Salem for the service they have done the world, and gave them some advice how to deal with witcheraft should it ever trouble them igam. "Be the witches or wizards, your dearest relatives or friends, consider not your own hearts," said he, "but remember your duty and spare them not; put them

Cetting a New Bible.

The pulpit of the little c urch at Hamilton, N. J., needed a new Bible. The worshippers were all poor, and they did not feel justified in going to the expense so long as the old book could be made to answer the purpose. At the Friday night ! meeting, Mrs. Boromaan Bisner announced that the need for a new Bible was imperative, and she meant to start out in earch of the means to purchase it, trusting that the Lord would find a way. The next morning she set out, and had gone but a short distance from her house when she espied a rattlesnake basking in the sun. Returning to the house she procured a boe, with which she soon dispatched the snake, and securing its rattiers as a trophy, she sold them to the Postmaster of the village for $4,50. With the moner she bought a new Bible and presented to the church.
